GERMANIA NOVA

59.74m (195'11"ft) | 2011

DESCRIPTION

GERMANIA NOVA is a replica of the schooner 'Germania' launched in 1908. She was built at Factoria Naval de Marin, located in Pontevedra, Galicia, Spain. As opposed to Germania, which did not include a motor or generators or air conditioning, GERMANIA NOVA has been outfitted with these important features for a charter yacht of her kind. In fact GERMANIA NOVA has full charter class under LY2. External decks, and sail plan are impressive.

ACCOMMODATION

Under deck she is composed of two main zones (guests and crew). Crew area is all located forward, and houses 10 crew in bunk areas, and two cabins for officers and captain, a crew mess, a laundry and a galley.

Guest area is composed of 5 cabins, including a master cabin and 4 guest cabins. All cabins with ensuite bathroom. One large saloon completes guest area. A bridge area finishes off the guest area, including all necessary radio and navigation equipment.
